

Study Arabic. Do anything.

99%

of Notre Dame Arabic majors find success within six months of graduation.

54%
started full-time jobs

Analyst, U.S. Government
Assistant, Office of the Wisconsin Governor
Associate, AlphaSights
Business analyst, McKinsey & Co.
Client services associate, Morning Consult LLC
Commodity trader trainee, Louis Dreyfus Company
Compliance analyst, AQR Capital Management
Consultant, LEK Consulting
Counterterrorism intern, Institute for the Study of War
E-commerce manager, Hollywood Feed LLC
Fellow, Command Group
Global associate, American University in Cairo
Intern, Tantur Ecumenical Institute
Military analyst, Booz Allen Hamilton
Paralegal, Simeone and Miller
Peace process and programming specialist, IEA Corporation
Program assistant, Atlantic Council
Research associate, Expert Institute
Staff domain specialist, MITRE Corporation
Staff research specialist, University of Pennsylvania
Teacher, Mount Carmel Academy

23% enrolled in graduate or professional school

Anthropology: University of Texas at Austin
Arabic: University of Michigan
Dentistry: University of Pennsylvania
Law: Columbia University, Fordham University, Georgetown University, UCLA
Medicine: Baylor College of Medicine, Washington University
National security studies: Daniel Morgan Graduate School of National Security
Social work: University of Southern California
Social sciences: University of Chicago
Translation: New York University

7% entered service
programs

Alliance for Catholic Education, San Jose, California
Jesuit Volunteer Corps, Baltimore, Maryland
Pacific Alliance for Catholic Education, Honolulu, Hawaii
Peace Corps, Comoros

12%
joined the military

2%
pursued other opportunities

(Completing an internship, conducting research, taking a gap year, pursuing independent creative or freelance work, volunteering, etc.)

Source: Meruelo Family Center for Career Development First Destination Reports, 2015-24

Curriculum requirements

6 courses in Arabic language

1 course in Arabic literature

1 course in Middle Eastern history

1 course in Islamic studies

1 elective

Patrick McCabe '21
Arabic and political science major

First: Youth ambassador, U.S. Pavilion, Expo 2020 Dubai

Now: Public affairs master's student, Princeton University

"The best part of Notre Dame's Arabic program is the diversity of courses offered. I really enjoyed being able to take classes on understanding topics in Arabic ranging from media and folklore to political thought and religion. I also appreciated how encouraged we were to study abroad, and my Arabic developed significantly by applying my language skills in Jordan, Jerusalem, and Morocco while a student at Notre Dame.

"As a graduate student, I use my Arabic skills frequently to better follow and understand the issues I am studying. I took a course last semester on Building a Future Framework for Syria, and it was very helpful to be able to read Syria's new transitional constitution in Arabic before discussing it in class the next week.

"On a personal level, I feel so grateful for the opportunities learning Arabic has given me to meet people from across such a large and diverse region of the world. Living with host families and making friends while getting to see so many unique parts of the Middle East and North Africa have been incredible experiences.

"Learning Arabic is a lifelong journey, as there are so many different dialects you can learn, and it is exciting that there is always something more to build on."

The Program in Arabic and Middle Eastern Studies
253 O'Shaughnessy Hall 574-631-7195 arabic.nd.edu arabic@nd.edu

Director of Undergraduate Studies
Ghada Bualuan gualuan@nd.edu

ARTS & LETTERS

al.nd.edu

Study everything. Do anything.